

NOOKSACK INDIAN TRIBE ELECTION CANDIDATE STATEMENT

Candidate Name/Nickname: Roswell James Cline. "Ross Cline"

Position Running For NOOKSACK Tribal Chairman

Today I see two priorities to be addressed. First is water adjudication and NOOKSACK River flooding. I am both in one category, dispute being polar opposites. The NOOKSACK river is reacting to environmental change. The south fork is predicted to become a seasonal stream. The Point Elliot treaty provides us with the earliest documented date for water rights. The Washington state Department of Ecology asked the NOOKSACK to enter into litigation to allocate the NOOKSACK river basin.

The second issue facing the NOOKSACK Indian Tribe is the sudden change in the geopolitical environment. The federal government is scaling back on funding federally recognized Tribes. The Nooksack Tribe will be forced to think outside the box in order to survive. It is time for NOOKSACK to enter into ventures in or near Bellingham. The Tribe must adopt to new to use methods of investing in stock, bonds and crypto currency.
